Joker: Cut debates, fast-track canvass

'Congress not board of inquiry'

By Christine P. Davidson
and GLE. Calalang Jr.
THE COUNTING OF VOTES for president and vice president by Congress should be fast-tracked by doing away with long debates on the remaining process and an allegation of economic fraud, Sen. John Enrile said yesterday.
"The people simply have not the patience to wait for Congress to do this," he said. "It is better to let the counting of votes be done by the people than by Congress. It is better to let the people decide than to let Congress decide." Enrile said that he would support a fast-track canvass for president and vice president.

The proposed procedure for computing the overall average treatment treatment difference is $\bar{D}_{\text{overall}} = \frac{1}{n} \sum_{i=1}^n D_i$, where $D_i = \frac{1}{n_i} \sum_{j=1}^{n_i} D_{ij}$ is the average treatment difference for the i th study. The overall average treatment difference is then used to compute the overall average treatment difference for the population of interest, $\bar{D}_{\text{overall}} = \frac{1}{n} \sum_{i=1}^n D_i$.

S. Korea, Japan fail to persuade China to censure N. Korea

SEOUL, May 13 (AP) — South Korea and Japan failed to persuade China to censure North Korea for its latest missile launch, a move that could lead to a new round of international sanctions.

The two nations urged China to take a stronger stance against the North Korean regime, but Beijing declined to do so, saying it was not in its interest to do so.

The launch of the missile, which was said to be a long-range one, was a clear violation of international law and a threat to the security of the region, the two nations said.

China's position is seen as a major setback for the two nations, which had been working to build a coalition to isolate North Korea.

The launch also raises the possibility of a new round of international sanctions, which could further isolate North Korea.

New British gov't rocked by minister's resignation

LONDON, May 13 (AP) — The resignation of a senior minister has rocked the newly formed British government, raising questions about its stability.

The minister, who had been a key figure in the government's formation, announced his resignation on Monday, citing personal reasons.

The resignation came at a time when the government was still in the early stages of its work, and it was seen as a major setback.

The prime minister, who had been in office for only a few days, expressed his disappointment and said he would be looking for a replacement as soon as possible.

The resignation also raised questions about the government's ability to hold together, especially in the face of such a high-profile departure.

However, the prime minister insisted that the government was still strong and would continue to work for the benefit of the country.

More Fun Than Ever!

A woman with long brown hair, wearing a blue long-sleeved shirt and dark pants, is standing next to a large, white industrial printer. She is leaning over the printer, which has a large sheet of paper emerging from it. The background is a plain, light-colored wall. There is some faint text on the wall behind her, including "It's time to see good things" and "P3,3".

A feast of images

It's a feast of images, a feast of ideas, a feast of the senses. The art show "Women Environmentalists" at the New York City Museum is a celebration of the work of women environmentalists. The show features a variety of media, including painting, sculpture, and photography. The artists are all women who have dedicated their lives to the environment. The show is a testament to the power of art to inspire change and to the strength of women in the environmental movement.

Carlos Filart's Quirapo and Nazarene bacchanalia

By Leah Wright
ARTS Carlos Filart's new work, "Quirapo and Nazarene bacchanalia," is a collection of 12 small-scale paintings that explore the themes of religion, politics, and social justice. The paintings are characterized by their vibrant colors and bold, graphic forms. Filart, a Los Angeles-based artist, has been working on this project for several years. The work is currently on display at the Masterpiece Gallery, located at 1234 Main St. in Los Angeles. The exhibition runs from January 10 to January 20, 2013. Filart's work is known for its powerful imagery and its ability to provoke thought and discussion. His paintings often depict figures in religious or political contexts, but with a modern, stylized twist. The "Quirapo and Nazarene bacchanalia" series is no exception, featuring figures that are both familiar and unfamiliar. The use of bright, saturated colors adds to the impact of the work, making it a visually striking experience for the viewer. Filart's art is a reflection of his deep engagement with the world around him, and his desire to use his creative voice to address important social and political issues. The exhibition at Masterpiece Gallery is a chance for the public to see this important work and to engage with the ideas it presents.
